Australia has a famous rock (岩石). More than 400,000 people go to see it every year.

Australians call it Ayers Rock. Local people call it Uluru, which means "a great pebble". Some people go to see Uluru because it is big. Some people go there because they want to climb it. Other people visit Uluru because it is very beautiful.

Uluru is 348 meters high and 9.4 kilometers round. Most of Uluru is underground. It is made of red sandstone (砂岩). The sandstone seems to change its color during the day. When the sun goes down, the rock looks red for a short time and then turns blue. Water also changes the color of the rock. When it rains, the rock looks silvery gray.

For a long time, the rock was a popular place for people to climb. But since 2017, they have not been allowed (允许) to do that. For local people, the rock is a sacred place. It is so important that them so they don't want the visitors to climb it. But people still like Uluru and think it is one of the most amazing rocks in the world.

A lot of families in England grow vegetables. A few people grow unusual or strange vegetables. But a great many people grow tomatoes. My neighbor grows the biggest, sweetest, happiest tomatoes in the world. "How do you do it?" I asked. "Why can't I grow tomatoes like yours?"

"I talk to them," my neighbor said. "I've been talking to my tomatoes for years." Up to now, I have always laughed at this.

This summer, some scientists carried out an interesting experiment (实验), and I have just read their report.

Three sets of tomato plants were grown. Nobody talked to the first set, but every day for a month, a recording (录音) of a man's voice was played to the second set, and a recording of a woman's voice was played to the third set. At the end of the month, the second set of plants was 4 cm taller than the first, and the third set of plants was 5 cm taller than the second. It showed the plants liked the woman's voice best.

"We can't explain (解释) it," a scientist said. "But sound waves surely help the tomatoes to grow. Plant growers have always paid attention to (关注) light and water. Now we advise you to think of sound waves in the same way."

29. The writer's neighbor grows better tomatoes because he

- A. stays with them
C. talks to them
- B. eats with them
D. thinks of them

30. What is the writer's purpose in writing the first two paragraphs?

- A. To have a talk with the neighbor.
C. To let people know more about England.
- B. To ask people to grow tomatoes.
D. To introduce a way of growing vegetables.

31. According to the experiment, which of the following helps tomatoes to grow best?

- A. A man's voice.
C. The sound of rain.
- B. A woman's voice.
D. The sound of animals.

32. What does the scientist mean by saying the underlined sentence?

- A. Plants do not grow at all if there are no sound waves.
B. Scientists have found the secret (秘密) of sound waves.
C. Sound waves are more important than light and water.
D. Plant growers should also pay attention to sound waves.

Jackson Turnbull is a student in Grade 7 at Lakeview Junior High School in Pickerington, US. These days, he needs help because he can't listen to the teachers carefully in class. And his classmate McKenna Burchett also needs help.

In their school, there is a room called the SMART lab. It helps students reduce (减轻压力) stress. "Everything around our kids will impact them, so sometimes they may feel good, but sometimes they may feel not so good," a school teacher said. "And in our SMART lab, these students can take a break, relax or have fun."

Students usually spend about 20 minutes in the lab. They can talk to friends or teachers, draw, listen to music and play games. All these things can help them reduce stress. So they will be more focused and listen more carefully in class.

This year, the lab helped 383 students at the school out of its 1,000 students. "There is always a place for us to go to and there we can find someone to talk with," one student said. "If you are afraid to talk to someone about how you feel, just go into the lab and speak to yourself." More and more students choose to go to the SMART lab to get relaxed.

83. Jackson Turnbull's problem is that

- A. he feels sad every day
- B. his teachers don't like him
- C. his classmates fight with him
- D. he worries about his studying in class

34. We can know that _____ in the lab.

- A. students usually stay for an hour
- B. it's difficult to make good friends
- C. teachers give lessons to students
- D. students can relax and have a rest

35. Students can do the following things in the lab EXCEPT (除了) _____.

- A. drawing pictures
- B. playing games
- C. talking with friends
- D. singing loudly

36. The last paragraph wants to tell us that

- A. 383 students can go to the SMART lab
- B. the SMART lab is popular with students
- C. there will be another SMART lab in Jackson Turnbull's school
- D. some students are afraid to stay in the SMART lab

Many people are trying to save the earth with special days like “Meatout Day”, “Earth Day” and “Buy Nothing Day”

Meatout Day

“Meatout Day” is on March 20th. Many people around the world don't eat any meat for one day. Join this day, and you'll get healthier. Also, you can reduce greenhouse gases (减少温室 室气体) and save the earth.

Earth Day

“Earth Day” is on April 22nd. Many people all over the world try to do something green on this day. In Italy, people don't use plastic bags. In Canada and Norway, people ride bicycles and don't use their cars. In the USA, people dress up like plants and animals and dance in Times Square, New York.

Buy Nothing Day

“Buy Nothing Day” is usually on the fourth Friday in November. On this day, many people don't buy anything. “Buy nothing” means “make no rubbish”. When you make less rubbish, you can make a cleaner earth.

Do you want to join them? Then you can remember these special days and do something green.

61. In which country do people not use their cars on Earth Day?

62. When is the “Buy Nothing Day”?

63. Why do many people celebrate (庆祝) the three special days?
